VEGETABLES - PROCESSING

Annual Summary

1967

Production of the 10 principal vegetable crops grown in the United States in 1967 for commercial processing totaled 9,910,390 tons, the highest tonnage of record, according to the Crop Reporting Board. This is 11 percent above the 1966 tonnage, 18 percent above the 1961-65 average, and 6 percent more than the previous record large quantities produced in 1962. Production estimates include tonnage from mature acreage not harvested in a normal manner because of economic factors.

The 1967 tonnage of all processing vegetable crops except asparagus exceeded that of a year earlier. Increases for these crops are as follows: cabbage for sauerkraut, 47 percent; snap beans, 19 percent; green peas, 14 percent; lima beans, spinach, and tomatoes, up 11 percent each; cucumbers for pickles, 10 percent; and beets and sweet corn, up 7 percent each. Asparagus production in 1967 was 14 percent less than the 1966 tonnage.

Yields per acre average above 1966 for all crops except asparagus, cucumbers for pickles, and spinach. Record high yields were estimated for lima beans, cabbage for sauerkraut, and sweet corn.

"Values per unit" from 1964 to 1967 for processing vegetable crops are not strictly comparable with prices reported for earlier years. Beginning in 1964, value of the crop is determined at the packinghouse door--i.e., the "value per unit" used to multiply by production is "equivalent returns at packinghouse door." Prior to 1964, the price was based on the average price at first receiving point. The 1967 value of all vegetables processed totaled $526,094,000, up 21 percent from a year earlier.

Data on the 5 leading States in acreage harvested, production, and value of vegetables grown for freezing and canning in 1967 are as follows:

Revised estimates for the years 1959-65 were released in August 1967 in Statistical Bulletin No. 411.
